They must also have a robust, open architecture and leverage Open Source wherever practical.

The BostonLogix team boasts a wealth of experience designing and building world-class commercial enterprise applications.

CLIENT'S SPEAK

"We were looking for a technology partner that could seamlessly support our existing systems and maintain our current processes while providing a strategic approach to helping grow our business.

Since engaging BostonLogix as our technology partner, we have seen growth in our user base and revenue while expanding our product and service offerings... BostonLogix's expertise is strengthening our ability to deliver robust financial data to hedge fund investors and increasing the value of our solutions.

Beyond the cost savings, their unique approach has allowed us the flexibility to bring in new team members when situations require specific expertise for our diverse technology systems. We have been and continue to be impressed with BostonLogix's business knowledge and deep technical expertise. They work efficiently and approached every problem creatively."

- CEO, Channel Capital Group

"My medical colleagues and I had several ideas to improve the quality of hospital care through software. The BostonLogix team immediately saw our vision and brought their passion and commitment to our endeavor.

Unlike typical software providers, BostonLogix helped establish our new company, arranged marketing services, and assisted in the development of our patent position. They also helped prepare the product plan, business plan and presentation materials. They blended with us as a team to garner medical industry support, and increase our value proposition to investors."
